

CSR Strategic Plan for 2026

Stakeholder engagement

USSK stakeholder engagement activities are governed by internal ethics and human rights requiring that all engagement is conducted free from manipulation, interference, coercion, intimidation, negative retaliation, or undue influence.

The stakeholder engagement process related to planning and implementation of support activities is conducted in accordance with the principles of open, transparent, and respectful communication. No stakeholder is purposefully influenced in expressing opinions, concerns, comments, or feedback. USSK ensures that stakeholders are able to communicate their views freely through appropriate and accessible communication channels.

This approach is supported by top management and applied not only during stakeholder engagement activities themselves, but also during the development, implementation, and regular review of the Stakeholder Engagement Plan.
